

ORDER TO SEIZE NAZIS' EXPORTS SIGNED BY KING

Britain Takes Reprisals For Mine-Laying Warfare As Sea Losses Increase

By HUGH WAGNON
Associated Press Staff Writer
LONDON, Nov. 27—An order in council for the seizure of German exports was signed today by King George VI as an avowed reprisal for German mine-laying warfare.

The order for the complete blockade of Germany will be published in the London Gazette tomorrow and probably will become effective in a few days.

The action came as new shipping losses were reported by the admirality.

Crew Of 40 Rescued

The Holland-America 8,559-ton freighter Sparndam sank in the Thames estuary. The crew of about 40, and one passenger, an elderly woman, were rescued by a pilot cutter.

(The line announced at Amsterdam the ship was sunk by a mine below London).

The former Polish liner Pilsudski and the armed merchant cruiser Rawalpindi also were sunk.

The loss of life aboard the Rawalpindi was estimated at about 250, with only 17 of the 16,697-ton vessel's crew of about 300 men escaping. Seven persons were missing from the Pilsudski.

Two Nazi Ships Captured

The 14,194-ton Pilsudski, first trans-Atlantic liner built for the Polish republic, had been chartered to the British admiralty. The Rawalpindi, former liner in the British-Orient trade, was one of the merchant cruiser fleet supplementing Britain's regular warships.

At the same time, the admiralty disclosed the capture of two German freighters, one of which later was destroyed by a German submarine as she was being taken to a British port by a prize crew.

The communicate said that the 3,670-ton North German Lloyd steamer Borkum was "abandoned and driven ashore" and that four Germans were killed in the encounter. The report said the prize crew suffered no casualties.

(A dispatch from Montevideo Oct. 9 said the Borkum "slipped out" of port without clearance papers.)

German Trawler Sunk

The admiralty said the other German freighter, the 4,455-ton Konsul Hendrik Fisser, was captured by the British and brought safely to port.

The British Houlder Line steamer Rayston Grange, 5,144 tons, sank in the Atlantic but all of crew were saved.

(A Copenhagen dispatch said a 300-ton German trawler sank today after striking a mine off the Danish island of Langeland.)

The seizure of German exports as well as her contraband imports was ordered as a reprisal for German mine laying in shipping channels without notification, it was announced.

(Germany has not said she was aware of the order.)

WILLING TO TESTIFY, MRS. ROOSEVELT SAYS

Dies Witness Tags Student Union As Red Vehicle

By The Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 27—Mrs.
Franklin D. Roosevelt said today she was willing to be a Dies committee witness—if she had any information which might be helpful.
She made the remark at a press conference about the same time that Maj. Hampden Wilson, an investigator for the house committee on un-Americanism, was testifying that the American Student union was an instrument used for spreading communism among students.

The First Lady, who has addressed the American Youth congress and said repeatedly that she did not believe it was communism-controlled, was replying to a suggestion from Alfred M. Lillenthal of New York that she and he appear as opposing witnesses on the subject.

(The American Student union is one of several organizations making up the American Youth congress.)

Mrs. Roosevelt told her press conference "I would answer anybody's questions asked in the interest of truth."

She submitted a report which she submitted at a committee hearing was based on an eight-month tour of 50 colleges and universities and discussions with state and city school board members.

The investigator, who was lent to the committee by the veterans' administration, also read into the record what he said were excerpts from "The Communist," a magazine of the communist party, which declared "how important" it was "to build the American Federation of Teachers."

POLICE PURSUE PARKING CHECK

Chief Repeats Warning That Violators Will Be Tagged

City police continued their drive over the week-end on parking violations which "menace the safety and convenience of other motorists". Ten tickets were given out.

Offenses for which motorists were tagged ranged from parking in prohibited zones to leaving an automobile in the middle of Fourth st. for 30 minutes during the peak of Saturday night traffic.

Police Chief Hugh J. McDermott today reiterated that all police on the force have been ordered to enforce parking regulations in such a way as to provide the greatest safety and convenience for shoppers and others coming here between now and Christmas. Two patrolmen have been assigned especially to traffic duty.

Ticketed For Parking

Parking tickets were issued to the following:

Emmet McDonald of 209 Ninth st., Wellsville, at 5:05 p. m. Friday for parking in a prohibited zone on St. Clair ave., by Patrolman John Richards.

Charles H. Caleb of 1935 Ohio ave., at 7:30 p. m. Saturday for parking on a cross-walk at Sixth and Washington sts., by Patrolman George Kidd.

James Hilbert of 300 Thompson ave., at 8:10 p. m. Saturday for parking on a cross-walk at Broadway and Washington st., by Patrolman Kidd.

Wade Hickey of West Sixth st., at 9:30 p. m. Saturday for leaving his car parked in the middle of East fourth st., by Patrolman Kidd.

Gale K. Blakelee of 1310 1/2 St.
Clair ave., at 9:30 p. m. Sunday for double parking on East Sixth st., by Capt. Roth.

George A. Aronson of 1939 Vine st., at 8:10 p. m. Sunday for parking in a bus zone on St. Clair ave., by Patrolman William Lister.
William Winchell of 433 West
Washington st., by Patrolman Lister.

MOTHER, THREE SONS PERISH IN HOME FIRE

By The Associated Press.
SPOTSWOOD, N. J., Nov. 27—A mother and three of her sons were burned to death today when trapped in a fire on the second floor of their Main st. home.

Mrs. Loretta Dougherty, 37, saved her 5-month-old baby, Theodore, by throwing him into the arms of a neighbor outside the building. Her husband, Elwood, a WPA worker, and another son, Robert, 9, saved themselves by jumping from a bedroom window.

The three sons who died were Herbert, 17; Raymond, 15, and Walter, 4.

Middlesex county Detective Walter Simpson said the fire apparently started in a coal stove in the kitchen.

According to police here, one car, driven by Clifford Forrest of 811 Steuben ave., Pittsburgh, collided with an auto driven by Lloyd Hayes of 897 Cleveland ave., Ashland, O. Both cars were damaged badly.

The injured were brought to City hospital in an ambulance, where they were treated and released.
They are:

Mr. Forrest, treated for a laceration over his right eye and chest bruises; his wife, Mrs. Florence Forrest, treated for bruises and lacerations to her right knee; Mr.
Hayes, treated for lacerations to his left knee; his wife, Mrs. Eleanor Hayes, possible fracture to her right hand, and their son, Charles Hayes, a sprained left ankle.

Mr. Forrest reported the accident to police.

MOSCOW DEMANDS FINLAND WITHDRAW ARMY ON BORDER

Jealousy Seen Behind Shooting That Leaves 3 Dead And 2 Injured

By The Associated Press.
PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 27 — A young man crept into the home of his estranged wife early today, shot to death two women of her family, wounded his wife and her father, then took his own life.

Detective Peter McCormick said Stanley Krygier, 30, sent bullets into the hearts of his mother-in-law, Mrs. Josephine Nieckoski, 45, and her 17-year-old daughter, Florence, as they ran for a stairway to escape.

Wounded in the chest, Krygier's 22-year-old wife, Regina, sought to escape by plunging through her bedroom window to a porch roof.
Krygier followed her, the detective said, and beat her with a hammer until she rolled to the pavement.

Her father, Felix Nieckoski, 57, was shot in the chest and fled the building by knotting together several sheets, tying them to a bed-post and lowering himself. He fell and broke his ankle.

McCormick said the young husband, a construction laborer, was maddened by jealousy of his wife;
wanted her to establish a home away from her family.

The landlady at a rooming house where Krygier stayed since he left his wife at Eastertime told police he had practiced marksmanship in the cellar of the home every week.

He pointed out that the note carried no time limit. It called for withdrawal "without delay."

The spokesman insisted there will be no withdrawal of soldiers sent to the frontier during the fruitless negotiations, Oct. 7 to Nov. 13, over Russian territorial demands.

Withdrawal north of Leningrad would nullify the protection afforded by border fortifications in a zone where, among other places,
Russia has demanded territory.

Flatly Deny Allegation

Premier Jino K. Cajander flatly denied the Russian allegation that Finnish artillery fire yesterday killed four Russian soldiers and wounded nine—the immediate cited basis for the Russian demand that troops in the Karelian Isthmus be withdrawn to points from 12 to 16 miles from the border.

A foreign office spokesman hinted that the Russians might have been killed accidentally and Finnish forces blamed.

Government circles generally were skeptical over Moscow's allegation of an artillery attack. They suggested that a better way to avert any further incidents would be withdrawal by the Russians themselves.

The sudden sharpening of relations between Russia and Finland, herself once part of imperial Russia, came just as Finns were beginning to settle down to normal life with the relaxation of blackout restrictions and the reopening of schools.

Thermometer Moves
UP AFTER DROP TO 24

The thermometer was on its way up today after the mercury dipped to 24 for the lowest reading in the district this season.

The low temperature was recorded at 6 a. m. today after a drop of 21 degrees from the 24-hour high of 45 Sunday afternoon. The mercury stood at 23 Sunday noon, 38 at 6 p. m. and 28 at midnight. At noon today, it was 40.

Fair and warmer weather was promised tonight and Tuesday.

Will Submit Sketches

From the sketches submitted by competing architects, one will be selected. The plan of Mr. Beatty calls for a gymnasium and auditorium seating about 3,700 persons, six class rooms and administrative offices for school officials.

District WPA officials at Akron
Saturday notified Emmett Gaston, clerk-treasurer of the board, that complete details are required at

FINNS DECLARE TROOPS WON'T BE MOVED BACK

Foreign Minister Prepares
Answer After Discussion
Of Note By Cabinet

By LYN HEINZERLING
Associated Press Staff Writer
HELSINKI, Finland, Nov. 27 — Finland will refuse Soviet Russia's demand that Finnish troops be withdrawn from the common border north of Leningrad, it appeared today from comment in government circles, which suggested that Russian forces themselves fall back.

The cabinet discussed the demand this morning and Foreign Minister Elias Erkkonen began immediately to draft an answer which may be presented today after cabinet approval.

Called 'Friendly Proposal'

Despite the pressure implicit in the note delivered yesterday to Finland's Moscow legation, a Finnish government spokesman chose to call it a "friendly proposal"—not an ultimatum.

He pointed out that the note carried no time limit. It called for withdrawal "without delay."

THREAT OF FILM STRIKE REMOVED

23,000 Craftsmen Receive Wage Boost In Dispute

By The Associated Press.
HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 27 — A threatened strike which might have closed the nation's motion picture theaters is past, but the 10 percent wage increase which 23,000 craftsmen won will be reviewed early next year.

Producers capitulated to demands of the conference of studio unions
(A. F. of L.) controlling the workers and granted the boosts Saturday, retroactive to Oct. 10. Earlier 12,000 members of another A. F. of L. affiliate, the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employes, were granted a similar increase.

William Bloff, chairman of the union conference, estimated $3, 000,000 additional will go into employes pay envelopes annually.

"On or about Feb. 15, 1940, you will give us an opportunity to show you that the condition of this industry makes a continuance of wage increases impossible and further to show you that we have taken every possible step within our power to readjust our business so as to make it possible to continue without recalling these wage increases," the producers stipulated.

A statement from the union conference that the producers had "capitulated by all our demands" was followed by announcement of the producers' reservations and later of their acceptance by the craftsmen.

Could Have Called Out 40,000

Through the International Alliance Theatrical Stage Employees, which many of the studio unions are affiliated, the A. F. of L. could have called out 40,000 pro-jectionists in 25,000 motion picture theaters in the United States and Canada and rendered approximately 250,000 theater employees idle.

A strike would have thrown out of work 30,000 studio employes, at present engaged in production of 35 pictures.

Union sources said that because of the casual nature of their employment, the annual wages of the studio craftsmen average only about $900.

SQUALUS' SISTER SHIP
HOLDS DIVING TRIALS

By The Associated Press.
PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Nov. 27—
The only civilian to survive the crash dive of the submarine Squalus was aboard the sister "Sboat" Searaven today as it headed out over the same course for its first submerging trials.

Harold Preble, civilian naval architect, was one of 33 men saved through a diving bell while the disabled Squalus rested on sea bottom 246 feet below the surface.
Twenty-six other men, including two civilians, perished.

Preble, who has made several dives since then, took today's trial trip as a matter of routine in connection with his work. Other Squalus survivors have been assigned to different ships.

Carrying about 50 men on its trial, the Searaven was commanded by Lieut. Thomas G. Reamy, U. S. N., already marked by the navy for promotion to lieutenant commander.

EDITORS TO GIVE VIEWS ON RELIEF

Bricker Calls Newsmen Of Metropolitan Centers

By The Associated Press.
COLUMBUS, Nov. 27—Editors of newspapers in Ohio's metropolitan centers will tell Gov. John W.
Bricker tomorrow what they think about the relief situation.

The governor, who has refused consistently to heed pleas of officials of several cities for a special session of the legislature to raise new poor aid money, invited the editors to "sit down and talk over their cities' problems with me."

Meanwhile, the governor considered a proposal from John Owens, Ohio president of the Congress of Industrial Organizations, that CIO officials from all parts of the state meet with Bricker Thursday to urge a special session.

Cleveland CIO leaders voted yesterday a resolution calling on civic and fraternal organizations to join with the CIO and the American Federation of Labor in Ohio to press special session demands.

Bricker was told by officials of Cleveland and Toledo last week that relief funds in both cities long had been exhausted and new money was needed urgently. Bricker refused for the fourth time in less than three months to call a special session, but suggested ways in which the cities could obtain money from sources already available.

One of these—excess utility excise tax collections—was opened Wednesday by a ruling of the attorney general, releasing $1,878,420, the bulk of which went to the large urban centers.

125 WORKERS PICKED FOR SALVATION ARMY

Men Assigned For Citadel's
Annual Fund Campaign

More than 125 men workers who will take part in the Salvation Army's campaign for $5,000 beginning here Tuesday night were announced today by Carroll P. Lynch, general chairman. Women solicitors will be announced tomorrow.

The men have been placed in 12 teams of nine to 12 members each.
Each team will be in charge of a certain part of the city. The division of the men's teams, while Mrs. J.
Donald Thompson will be in charge of the women workers.

The campaign will start with a dinner meeting in the Mary Paterson memorial Tuesday at 6. The workers will meet again Friday at the same hour for a report.

The local Salvation Army corps is directed by Adj. and Mrs. Jack Webster, who entered the service 17 years ago at Toronto, Can. During the last 12 months the organization assisted 517 families with 3,164 garments, 315 pairs of shoes, 154 pieces of furniture and 63 grocery orders. This relief work cost $1,618.33. In the transient work 1-021 meals were furnished, 85 women and children received lodging and 404 garments were distributed among 1,510 applicants.

The $5,000 sought in the campaign will enable the Salvation Army to carry on its work for the year ending Sept. 30, 1940

HEAD OF CITADEL SEES CARNALITY GROWING IN U.S.

Adj. Webster Says Christ's Followers Must Beware Of Worldly Things

Carnality is entering the church and kindred religious organizations with depressing results, said Adj. Jack Webster, commandant of the East Liverpool Salvation Army, in a sermon at the citadel Sunday morning.

Using the initial eight verses of Paul's epistles to the Romans, Adj. Webster emphasized the need of Christ's adherents being free from the entanglements of the world. His sermon was preliminary to the annual campaign of the corps for funds to carry on its welfare work.

Spirituality Essential
"It is essential in a modern age for exponents of Christ's gospel to lead spiritual lives," he said. "Those who have declared themselves as carrying His name have a duty to be carnal. They must be free from carnality and tendencies toward worldliness."

"When the Apostle Paul wrote to those who comprised the Christian church in Rome he exhibited satisfaction at their steadfastness. 'I thank God through Jesus Christ for you all,' he said, 'that your faith is spoken of throughout the world.' It was a faith that was generally known. And such should be the faith of each one who professes to be a follower of Christ." He noted also that they were the called of Jesus Christ, which should be true of every Christian adherent.

Genuine Repentance
"Those coming to Him in genuine repentance by reason of their faith and full surrender to Him can have spiritual victory. Those doing so, though once afflicted with the desire for drink and other sinful desires and habits, can find freedom and happiness in the new life in Him."

"In his epistle to the Romans, Paul stressed the plan of Christ's salvation, justification by faith and the work of the Holy Spirit, all making for a spiritual trinity. Those coming to Him, and continuing in faith, can have the experience of the Apostle Paul who said, 'I can do all things through Him who strengtheneth me.'"

Minister Discusses 'Secret Of True Prayer'

Only when there is the sense of desperation as one fights to pray to God can there be true prayer, said Rev. M. Rudolph Miller, minister of the First Presbyterian church, as he spoke Sunday night. His discourse was on the theme, "The Secret of True Prayer." The choir of the Emmanuel Presbyterian church sang. At the morning service Miss Ruth Schneidmiller of St. John's Lutheran congregation sang "How Beautiful the Mountain," by Harker.

It was announced that Rev. Bernard C. Clausen of the First Baptist church of Pittsburgh, will speak at a dinner for men Dec. 7, and that the Saturday evening prayer circle will meet in the minister's study next Saturday evening.

Pastor Points To Love Of Christ Even For Vilest

Outlining God's nature as being so permeated with love that even the vilest sinner can be included in His grace, Rev. William Dwight Heaston, added that Christians, bearing His name, similarly should show love in their relationships with others. He spoke at the First Methodist church Sunday morning. Speaking on the theme, "The Claims of Love," he noted the instance of the woman taken in the act of immorality, being brought to Jesus by those regarding themselves as devotees of religion yet who sought in this manner to try Him in order to discover fault in Him.

"Love was revealed in an outstanding way when Christ upon the cross was reviled, spit upon and charged to save Himself if he was the Son of God. In the face of all these tauntings He put them away as in His love He asked God to forgive them."

Rev. Kindsvatter Speaks On 'Stewardship' Sunday

On the final Sunday of the year, Rev. John F. Kindsvatter, pastor of St. John's Lutheran congregation, pointed out the demands on members, as he spoke Sunday morning on "Stewardship."

The sermon preceded the annual "every member visitation" by representatives of the church in the afternoon.

On the altar during the services last night were flowers dedicated by Mr. and Mrs. Ephraim Ladzinski to the glory of God and in honor of the 91st birthday (Nov. 26) of Mr. Ladzinski's mother. The latter lives in the Polish corridor, the initial battleground of the present European war, and has not been heard from since the outbreak of hostilities. She was remembered in the prayers of the congregation.

"We are not only stewards of our lives, but also stewards of the talents of grace," Rev. Kindsvatter said.

Acceptance Of Christ Seen As World's Need

The need of the world is the acceptance of Jesus Christ, said Rev. Clyde H. Canfield who stressed the need of choosing Him rather than worldly inclinations in his sermon Sunday morning at the First United Presbyterian church. He spoke on the theme, "The Gospel For an Age of Doubt." Announcement was made of a prayer hour for women at the Calvary Methodist church Friday afternoon, Dec. 1.

A report was given on the Thanksgiving of the congregation and its organizations taken Nov. 19 when $581 was received. Of this amount the Women's Missionary society reported $340; the Young Women's Missionary society, which included a life membership for Mrs. Beatie Parsons, $143; the Ella Mae Davison Mission circle $53, and the Junior Missionary society, $45.

England's birth rate will, it is expected, show an increase of 25,000 this year over last year's totals.

14-POINT FARM PROGRAM GIVEN

National Grange Offers Plan To Assist Agriculture

By The Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Nov. 27.—The National Grange announced today a 14-point "platform for agriculture" which National Master Louis J. Taber said is "one behind which every group of farmers and Americans could rally to solve the problems of agriculture."

The platform, drafted by the executive committee after the grange's recent convention in Peoria, Ill., outlined these proposals:

1.—Give to agriculture its fair share of the national income so that it may be raised to equality with other groups.

2.—Insist that the farm program be administered by farmers, with compensatory payments to tide over the emergency while farm prices are below parity.

3.—Speed national recovery by taking the shackles off business, by increasing employment and reducing the relief burden.

4.—Recognize as fundamental the right of the American farmer to the American market up to the limit of his ability to supply it.

5.—Close the doors to imports of foreign farm products which are injurious to American agriculture and which help to reduce its purchasing power.

6.—Keep America out of foreign wars.

7.—Develop a sound rural credit program.

8.—Recognize that adequate transportation facilities are indispensable to the welfare of the nation.

9.—Base taxation on benefits received and ability to pay and insist upon economy and efficiency in all branches of government.

10.—Develop better markets for farm products.

11.—Maintain the family-sized farm as the standard of American agriculture and discourage large-sized corporation farming.

12.—Continue soil conservation as a part of a permanent program for better use of land, but not as a means of crop control.

13.—Promote a better and more satisfactory rural life through development of educational facilities, good roads and rural electrification.

14.—Foster the American spirit of self-help in solving our problems; encourage cooperation between farmers and farm organizations; urge understanding, cooperation and goodwill among agriculture, labor and industry for mutual welfare and for the best interests of the nation.

BOICE HOME DAMAGED BY BLAZE FROM GRATE

Firemen said an open grate fire caused a blaze that damaged the home of former County Treasurer George S. Boice on Thompson ave. Sunday at 7 a. m.

The blaze ate its way up through the side of the frame building, damaging both the first and second floors. Firemen were required to use a big line of hose to save the building.

Firemen had just returned to the station when the fire broke out anew and a second run was made at 8:10. No estimate of the damage was made, but the loss is said to be insured.

Firemen also were called to a point near the city limits on routes 7 and 30 Sunday afternoon when a hot emergency brake set fire to the wrecking truck of the Turk Motor Sales.

Old clothing suitable for distribution to needy children will be collected Sunday, Dec. 10, throughout the city by members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, it was announced today by the organization's Christmas activities committee.

Persons desiring to contribute apparel are urged to leave the articles on their porches on that day. The Junior Chamber members will take the clothing to a central distributing point and arrange to supply it to needy families before Christmas.

CRAZED FATHER KILLS FAMILY OF 4 AND SELF

SALT LAKE CITY, Nov. 27.—A crazed father, Grant F. Wentz, 35, apparently killed his wife and three children with a hammer Saturday, then shot himself.

Dr. George N. Curtis, who performed an autopsy, said the heads of the mother and children had been crushed by heavy blows. They died in bed. The father's body, a 22 caliber rifle nearby, was found in a pool of blood in the kitchen.

The mother and children also were strangled with heavy wire. Gas was pouring from open jets. The hammer was found in one of the blood-spattered beds.

MIDLAND BALLOT RECOUNT SLATED

6 Republicans Ask Check On Returns For Councilmen

Special To The Review.
MIDLAND, Nov. 27.—The rule of borough council, which went to Democrats according to official returns from the Nov. 7 election, is contested by recount petitions of six Republicans on file today with the Beaver county court.

A recount of the balloting for all six candidates will be made Wednesday when County Commissioner Paul H. Baldwin and Pauline Ruckert and Elizabeth Johnston begin work on recounts in six other voting districts.

The petitions were filed by W. J. Belkin, Frank J. Migliore and Edward J. McGeehan for the first precinct, and Nick Vignovich, Louis Ancelle and Patsy Papa for the second precinct.

Election returns showed Edward W. Haydon, Dr. Zewel Sigal and George J. Griffin elected to the seven-man council group. By winning all three contests, the Democrats obtain a majority representation, as there is one Democrat, Anton Martell, already a member.

The closest balloting was between Mr. Griffin, who received 1,139 votes, and Dr. Frank E. Benedict, Republican, who polled 1,112. Mr. Haydon received 1,192 and Dr. Sigal 1,172.

John Shannon received 1,068 and P. A. Fensler, 1,063, on the Republican slate.

The board also will recount returns for Center township supervisor which showed James A. Cochran Jr., Democrat, winning over Sidney O. Huffmyer, Republican, by three votes, 245 to 242.

The Army's Stomach

THERE is no excuse for war, except that men aren't smart enough to maintain peace. They go to war to find out why peace is preferable.

When they go to war, furthermore, they find out what happened to destroy peace. Great Britain and France could have kept peace from being destroyed by pooling their resources in peacetime as they have been forced to do in wartime.

Germany would not be fighting against heavy odds if it had given as much attention to organizing its economic forces to sustain its population for peace as it has given to sustaining it for war. The United States, which has found eager customers for its war exports, wishes it could have had the benefit of the same eagerness in peacetime.

Every war—the newest one is no exception—demonstrates strikingly that the causes of belligerency are economic and that war, itself, is nothing but armed hostility to settle economic frictions.

Armies still travel on their stomachs, even though there are wheels under the stomachs in modern times. The nation that can keep its people eating is the nation that can keep its people fighting.

If all nations would do the things necessary to keep their people eating, however, there would be no need for fighting.

Mystery

AKIN to the question of what happens to all the paper clips that get dropped on floors is what happens to football pickers when football season's over. This is much harder to understand than what happens to downtown quarterbacks, who help coach basketball teams in the off-season.

Team pickers, however, don't go in for basketball. They stick to football, except during baseball season. Every Saturday from the middle of September to the last of November they back up their judgment on the relative merits of football teams with token bets. They are not gamblers, but merely small fry who find peculiar pleasure in backing up their observations and hunches with pin money. Among them are found many women, who are notoriously good pickers.

To hear them talk, to watch them as they clench and unclench their moist hands in front of radios, to listen to them boast when their team wins and to watch them cringe when their team loses, one might think something vitally important was at stake.

Something of vital importance is at stake—their judgment. If they pick Yippledaddle to beat Whoop-erdoop and Yippledaddle wins, they're able to point to themselves with pride until the next triumph. Maybe they rest on their laurels from one season to the next.

Ohioans who thought Michigan couldn't beat State last Saturday, however, have no laurels to rest on. They must stay in hiding among the raspberry bushes.

Public Opinion Polls

PUBLIC opinion polls, which lately have been getting attention from jokesmiths, are scheduled for congressional discussion next session. Resolution calling for investigation were offered in both houses last session and indicated congressional interest in the subject.

For an obvious reason, legislative attempts to restrict public opinion polls would be opposed vigorously. They would look like attempts to throttle expression of popular thought for narrowly selfish reasons, because critics usually are motivated by the conviction they have been injured.

There is a more intelligent and certainly a more tactful approach to the problem—and there is a problem. It is how to ascertain public opinion on a candidate or a question without prejudicial effect on voting.

While believers in polls insist this does not occur, suspicion that it does occur is at the bottom of most criticism.

It would be a simple matter for the polls, themselves, to remove this objection. The only thing necessary would be to display prominently in each presentation of statistics the explanation that the findings reflect public opinion as of a certain date.

This is being done already by some polls, though there might be more attention called to it. Public opinion is never static, but changes almost from day to day on controversial issues.

The polls' best defense would seem to be the high percentage of persons interviewed who have no opinions at all, particularly on complex questions. Certainly this indicates the need for more, not less, stimulation to popular thought on current issues.

Today And Tomorrow

Wherein We Are Urged To Learn Again Principles That Assisted Our Ancestors From 1780 To 1870

By WALTER LIPPMANN

OUR great-grandfathers understood far better than do we the principles which draw men together into political unions of free men. They lived in an age when those very things were being achieved which men now think are infinitely desirable but in practice unattainable. For the period from about 1780 to about 1870 was one of increasing freedom.

Mr. Lippmann, dom for the individual and of an expanding unity among divided and separated communities. But since 1870 the world has been moving away from liberty and into ever more anarchical disunion.

If now we are to arrest the reactionary movement into disorder and to resume the truly progressive movement toward liberty and union, we shall have to learn again what our great-grandfathers knew, and we shall have to unlearn the errors of the well-meaning but radically misguided progressives of the last two generations.

The lost wisdom of our forefathers was in their discovery, during the experience of the 18th century, that the way to make men free is to replace the decrees and commands of a ruling class by a system of equal laws. They were not anarchists. When they said that the best government is the one which governs least, they were not advocating a general lawlessness and license.

ON the contrary they were advocating more law and less lawless overhead directing and managing by public officials. They understood that the individual is free in so far as his life is regulated not by the arbitrary commands of other men but by general rules which bind all men alike. They discovered also that the way to unite free men in larger and larger political unions is not to construct new, gigantic and overpowering centralized governments but the very opposite of this; to remove the barriers, to repeal the privileges, to disestablish the monopolies, which interfere with the free exchange of goods and services, and thus separate men into small warring, jealous groups each with its vested interest.

These were the two cardinal principles by which our forefathers were guided: That the individual becomes free by the development of law and that men become united by freedom of trade. Under the aegis of these principles they carried out an unprecedented emancipation of the individual and they accomplished a series of unifications which put us to shame.

In the period between 1780 and 1870 there took place the unification of the liberated American states of the Canadian provinces, of the revolted Portuguese and Spanish colonies, of the German kingdoms and principalities, and of the Italian.

IS it not a striking fact, a curious and most significant fact, that since 1870 this movement not only has been arrested but has been reversed, that instead of a tendency toward more and more comprehensive unions there has been an ever more violent tendency toward disintegration and separatism? Up to 1870 it was natural for men to believe that it was desirable and practical to unite, let us say, Prussia and Bavaria, or Piedmont and Tuscany and Naples. But after 1870 it no longer seemed desirable or practicable to federate Belgium and Holland, or the Scandinavian countries, or the Balkan nations when they were liberated from Turkish rule, or the Danubian nations when the Hapsburg empire collapsed.

There must be some reason for this reactionary tendency away from the larger unity which people must have if they are to be safe and are to prosper.

That reason, I believe, is that after 1870 the intellectual leaders of the progressive nations lost their understanding of the principles of free trade and turned from liberalism toward socialism and protectionism.

They were under the impression, of course, that they could reform the abuses of capitalism not by continuing to reduce special privileges but by giving public officials more and more power to manage men's affairs. As a result they have become government more and more bureaucratic, more and more arbitrary.

THE effect, as was shown in the case of Austria-Hungary, was to drive men into rebellion against centralized authority, only to have the liberated peoples set up in their turn equally centralized authority in smaller areas.

The tragedy of Czechoslovakia, for example, was that the Czechs repeated in their little country precisely the same mistakes which had caused them to revolt against the Hapsburg empire. They were centralizing collectivists, and collectivism disunites. They were children of their epoch. The epoch since 1870 has been the epoch of collectivism and, in consequence, the epoch of declining liberty and increasing disunion.

I realize, of course, that stated in this summary fashion the argument is likely to persuade only those who already disposed to accept the conclusion.

The movement today toward European union is inspired and is led not by socialists and planners and so-called internationalists, but by men who in the exact and classic meaning of the word are liberals.

What is going on in Europe today cannot be understood unless it is understood that the actuating and directing forces behind the movement toward European union are recruited from men who are in conscious revolt against protectionism, collectivism, planned economy, reconstructionism and bureaucratic centralization.

These unionists have no idea of erecting some monstrous super-state which is to plan and manage the life and labor of the peoples of Europe from a central seat of authority. They know perfectly well that the diverse peoples of Europe cannot be organized and coerced into unity; that crude fallacy is being exploded by the horrible spectacle of the Communist and Nazi attempt to impose unity by freedom.

IT HAS been the spectacle of this totalitarian failure abroad, and it has been the experience of the collective failure of the labor party in England and of the popular front in France, which have raised to power men like M. Paul Reynaud, to cite one great name, who are educated and convinced liberals.

It is much too early to say that these liberals have persuaded all their countrymen. But it is not too early to say that their influence is growing and at critical points is already decisive, because the protectionist collectivist doctrine is so obviously bankrupt.

For my own part, I have great faith in the practical possibilities of the present movement toward European union because there is such strong evidence, I think, that the reaction against collectivism has set in among Europeans. The deeper tides of opinion are, I believe, now running everywhere in favor of a return to those principles which between 1780 and 1870 made for freedom through unity and for unity through freedom.

Otherwise, if this present movement for union were just another scheme for organizing a mechanical salvation, it would amount to little more than one of those mirages which men dying of thirst in the desert see on the distant horizon.

But in fact this present movement for union arises out of an experience like that which our forefathers had been through and it is actuated by the same principles which worked so well for the liberators and the unifiers in the days of our great-grandfathers.

So we may allow ourselves to have faith. These principles were not cleverly improvised the day before yesterday. And a cause which is grounded in the wisdom of the past is likely to hold genuine promise for the future.

Destroyers

By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27 — Much of the conflict over the design of recent classes of destroyers appears to spring from an effort to reconcile two schools of thought by letting both have their way.

Destroyers are those low-cut, slim-hipped boats, about the size of a middle-weight yacht, that can outrun any warship afloat. They have two major duties — to destroy or neutralize submarines and to dash forward in time of battle to spray a sheaf of torpedoes that will compel the enemy to take a disadvantageous position.

They must be fast, or they will be brought down before they can come close enough to release their torpedoes.

They must be nimble as a cat, to dodge torpedoes and to flee heavier gunfire.

They must carry massive fire power, both in guns and torpedo tubes.

Finally, they must be seaworthy under all conditions. Each of these requirements runs contrary to one or more of the others.

OLD-LINE officers always have emphasized seaworthiness. They need go back only to the World War to point out that efforts of bright young officers to put more and more gadgets on the Ford eagle boats brought a naval scandal.

These, in original design, were seaworthy. By the time all the surplus gadgets were installed they began tipping over even in smooth water.

Changes in design in the last half dozen years indicates the present drift. The Farragut class, of 1933 and 1934, carried eight torpedo tubes neatly balanced in the center-line of the ship, so that they could fire to either side. They had five 4-inch guns and reputedly could do 41 knots—about 45 miles an hour—in a pinch.

The Craven class of 1937 had 4-inch guns, but carried 12 torpedo tubes, six on a side.

THEN comes the Hammann class, about which the controversy arises. Reputedly they are as fast or faster than the Craven class. In addition they carry 16 torpedo tubes, four more than the Craven class and have a double deck bank of guns forward.

It makes them a powerhouse. But to this topside weight, other features designed to make them even more rugged were added.

They work fine in smooth water, but when one had its test in rough water, it took a high sea on a full-speed turn and listed so badly that the navy decided something had to be done.

What will be done remains a naval secret.

An Industrial Revolution

Canada Speeds 25-Year Trend Toward Development Of Manufacturers

THE foreign country Americans know best is, of course, Canada. Yet, many of them still find it hard to believe, in the third month of the war, that their friendly neighbor to the north is belligerent, probably because they think they know Canada better than they actually do.

Little noticed these days, except by financiers, businessmen with some special interest, and newly important militarists studying balances of power and means of national defense, momentous things are happening in the Dominion.

It is only a phase of the progressive industrialization of Canada—but a phase that has been speeded up tremendously by the impetus of the European war and Canada's vital importance as a source of supply for Great Britain.

As long ago as last April one of Canada's leading investment organizations was saying: "Today Canada is an extensive manufacturing country, while in 1914 her value to Great Britain and the Allies depended upon her extensive raw materials."

"Industry in Canada could be put on a war basis rather quickly, and assuming that the British navy would be able to keep open the lines of communication, industry should be exceedingly active."

That is exactly what has happened. Canadian industry has become "exceedingly active." Canada has become an important source of supply, not only actual but potential. Industrial expansion is the order of the day.

UNLIKE some effects of war, this is not an isolated phenomenon as far as the United States is concerned. It is something taking place on the other side of the world's most famous unfortified border.

In the Magazine of Wall Street, issue of Nov. 18, Dr. Winkler, foreign trade analyst, has this to say about the reason for American interest in Canadian expansion:

"With America's stake in Canada estimated at almost three and three-quarters billion dollars, or more than one-third of America's total stake abroad; with American trade with the Dominion amounting to close to 700 million dollars, or about one seventh of the nation's total foreign commerce, and with American investors, individuals as well as institutions, owning approximately $1-700,000,000 par value of Canadian government, provincial, municipal and corporate securities, or substantially in excess of 40 percent of America's total portfolio investments abroad, it is apparent that the United States cannot view with indifference developments in the Dominion."

SURVEYS of Canada's industrial activity, reports the Magazine of Wall Street, reveal notable gains in virtually all directions. "Canada today is quite a different country from the Canada of a quarter of a century ago. The industrial and commercial progress registered within the last two and a half decades has been most impressive."

As to the future, says Dr. Winkler, "it is expected confidently that the war will not affect materially the economic and fiscal structure of the Dominion, which is sufficiently solid to withstand the stress incident upon the new holocaust."

There may be a restriction of Canadian purchases in the United States due to a slight inflation of Canadian currency, but on the other hand American purchases in Canada may increase, particularly with supplies of pulp and paper in Europe cut off by the war.

NO restrictions are being placed upon normal trade between Canada and the United States. Service on Canadian investments is expected to be continued. "The Dominion will continue to steer clear of unsound and fantastic measures in the future as she has always managed to do in the past," predicts Dr. Winkler.

The changing economy of the Dominion has reduced agriculture's importance as a producer of wealth from a full 50 percent to less than 40 percent. Mining has developed rapidly as an economic factor. Annual production of gold alone has risen about 365 percent since 1914.

Fish Is A Fish

LONDON—British fishermen no longer have to throw the little ones back. From now on, owing to the war, a fish is a fish and the country's food supply comes first.

The ministry of agriculture has announced the revocation of a 1938 law establishing the following minimum sizes of fish which could be landed: Hake, 13 inches; haddock and whiting, 9½ inches; dab, sole, plaice, whiting, megrims, witches, 9 inches.

Henpecked

Our Old Man Maintained 99 Percent Of Married And Unmarried Men Are, Only They Don't Realize It

By DAMON RUNYON

ONE day a chap back in our old home town of Pueblo expressed sympathy for a married fellow citizen because he was grievously henpecked. Our old man said 99 percent of the married and unmarried men of the United States were henpecked, only they did not always realize it.

He said life for men in this country was just a round of henpeckery. He said they were henpecked individually and collectively. He said collectively the men of the United States had been henpecked into giving the women equal suffrage, into turning females loose when they committed murder and into passing all kinds of fool laws imposing restrictions upon the personal liberties of men.

Our old man said the custom of men tipping their hats to women was just the result of henpeckery. He said he had absolutely no objection to the custom but saw no more reason why a man should tip his hat to a woman, especially on a cold day, than a woman should tip hers to a man.

He said another custom that was the result of henpeckery was men being required to rise when a woman entered a room. He said there was no logic in that because men were commonly wearier than women.

OUR old man said both these customs depended on recognition of their sex and he said this insistence was a subtle form of henpeckery. He said this form also was expressed in rules against men smoking at certain times and in certain places and in women requiring "as a matter of etiquette," for which there was no legal foundation, that men assist them in and out of vehicles and across streets.

He said he felt sorry for one of his best friends right there in our old home town who had long suffered from this form of henpeckery. He said this friend was a little chap married to a big husky woman who could probably balance a wheelbarrow loaded with brick in either hand, but who required her husband to observe all small social niceties.

Our old man said for more than 20 years she had insisted on her husband helping her as she stepped in or out of a carriage or walked up or down stairs or even sat down, always leaning plenty of her weight on him. Our old man said the fact that his friend was a physical wreck was undoubtedly due to henpeckery.

He said any time women got jealous of any rights or privileges enjoyed by men they proceeded to eliminate these rights and privileges through a general system of henpecking in the form of disapproval. He said for instance take men's clothes, which had become stereotyped, dull and drab.

OUR old man said there had been a time when men could wear the flooziest of apparel, such as knee pants of silk and gaudy coats, with flounces and ruffles on their linen and the niftiest kind of befeathered hats. He said they could wear rings on their fingers and jeweled buttons and buckles and fobs. He said he knew this was true because he had seen pictures of kings and courtiers and private gentlemen of old, including chaps like George Washington and Thomas Jefferson.

He said individual and collective henpecking had reached a state of perfection in the United States because women had hit upon the scheme of starting work on the objects of their pecking in adolescence. They began on them as little boys.

Our old man said that by the time a boy grew to manhood he was so accustomed to being henpecked he never knew just when it was happening to him.

HE SAID a lot of married men there in our old home town of Pueblo were blamed for permitting their wives to influence their decisions but that those men did not realize that they were being influenced. He said they were merely pliable as a result of their early henpeckings. He said their mothers and sisters were probably more to blame than their wives.

Our old man said he supposed a man who had not been trained to henpecking in his youth was something of a problem to a woman who was a natural born pecker. He said such a man might be impervious to the henpeckery of continued suggestion that he do this-and-so, which is sometimes called nagging.

He said the man might be immune to delicately veiled threats and to deep silences and to all the other wiles of henpeckery familiar to those trained to henpecking. Our old man said that in such a case tears were the thing. He said he had known many of the accepted forms of henpeckery to fail, but that good old tears never, never missed.

Ash Trays

By Truman Twill

A SHALLOW receptacle too small to hold anything and designed to tip over when nudged lightly from any direction is dignified by the name ash tray. This is an invention fostered by manufacturers who have a number of these worthless articles to dispose of and must call them something.

Housewives carry on the fraud by locating the receptacles here and there, always just out of reach, and explaining to guests, "Oh, I have oodles of ash trays around here somewhere"—whereupon they produce one and expect it to do the job.

It is a common rule that ash trays should not be functional. Instead, they must look like something else—a metal leaf that has just fluttered down from the ceiling to lie lightly on the edge of the table, or a pup that unaccountably has developed a shallow basin in the small of his back.

At the other extreme is the ash tray that someone tried to make functional and succeeded only in making complex. This job usually is tricked up with a trap door through which everything is supposed to disappear, but unfortunately only the mechanically inclined have any idea how to make the door work.

Once a man who was tired of apologizing for tipping over ashtrays, accidentally brushing out and blowing out their contents, wondering whether this or that pretty little dish really was an ash tray or not, and wincing at the absurd things turned out in the name of ash trays, invented a better one.

It was a square open box, heavy enough to stay put, high enough on the sides to keep its contents intact, wide enough to accommodate haphazard depositing of ashes, padded on the bottom to keep it from scratching in case it did slip and plainly labeled ASH TRAY.

He never had a chance to put it on the market. As soon as his wife spied it she quietly broke it and threw it into the trash barrel because she had just bought the dearest little tray imaginable. It was a bird drinking out of a lovely basin held up to it by a darling little cupid. There was room enough in the basin for maybe a whole teaspoonful of ashes. It was too cute for anything.

SOME ACTIVITIES OF TRADE UNIONS RAPPED AT LAST

Writer Discusses Instances Of Alleged 'Unreasonable Restraints' By Labor

By DOROTHY THOMPSON (Copyright, 1939, New York Tribune) NEW YORK, Nov. 27.—In his prosecution of monopolies, the Assistant Attorney General, Thurman Arnold, has got around to trade unions, and it was high time somebody did.

Mr. Arnold's letter, addressed on Nov. 19 to the Central Labor Union of Indianapolis, is an attempt to define what are and are not legitimate rights of labor unions. Among others, he defines as illegitimate the following practice:

"Unreasonable restraints designed to compel the hiring of useless and unnecessary labor."

Now, this unreasonable restraint is practiced constantly by trade unions, and this, rather than their attempts to establish decent working standards, is what is getting the American public thoroughly fed up.

Producers 'Held Up'

The musicians' union is a notorious case in point. Producers of plays are held up constantly by the musicians' union — "held up" are words chosen carefully.

"The musicians' union has adopted the rule that if any music is used in a play, even though the music consists of an actor putting a dance record on a phonograph, the performance comes within the jurisdiction of the musicians' union, and thereupon they swoop down upon it and mulct it for all it is worth."

In "The Cradle Will Rock" the music consisted of the composer himself, Mr. Marc Blitzstein, playing the piano, but the production had to support 12 musicians whose contribution to the performance consisted of reporting at the correct hour and playing cards back stage.

Must Hire Four Men

In "The Time of Your Life," there is a one minute song—a Salvation Army hymn—during which one man plays a trumpet and another beats a drum. But you can't hire a drummer and a trumpeter; you have to hire four men; that's the minimum for any show with music.

If the musicians' union decides that a show is a musical then the minimum is an orchestra, and that is 16 men. Sometimes, in a burst of generosity, they make concessions and let you get away with only 12 when three would do.

All this has nothing to do with the wicked capitalistic system. The musicians' union doesn't care whom they shake down. The original version of "Pins and Needles," put on by the Ladies' Garment Workers, called for two pianists, but it is carrying 12 musicians. The producers have managed finally to fix it so that most of them actually play music at some point in the play.

The stage hands and electricians also cooperate to make it impossible to produce any theatrical performance rationally.

When the Mercury theater was playing "Julius Caesar" and preparing the production of "Shoemaker's Holiday" four musicians were demanded to play a one-page score written for two trumpets, and when the two who really played trumpets arrived one morning to rehearse with the composer, they asked an electrician to turn on a light.

But the electrician was hired, he informed them, to turn on lights for "Julius Caesar," not for "Shoemaker's Holiday," so he first refused, at last consented, turned on the light, and sent a bill for $21 the same afternoon.

Of course, nobody else could turn on the light, because that is the territory of the electricians.

Must Hire A Manager

Then there is the Trade Union of Company Managers, Treasurers and Press Agents. No producer may manage his own play; that is to say, he may, but he must hire a manager whether he needs him or not, and he must also hire a press agent and a treasurer.

This little item threatens to put some of the summer theaters out of business.

And it costs $500 to get into this racket.

Mr. Arnold is on the subject he might take up the question of whether a trade union has the right to expel a member for political activities—as the American Federation of Musicians attempted to do with Mr. Walter Damrosch in the spring of 1938.

The musicians' union have a closed shop, and if they really had expelled Mr. Damrosch he could no longer have conducted an orchestra in the United States.

He Gave Testimony

Mr. Damrosch's crime was to have testified adversely before the United States senate on the Pepper-Coffey bill, providing for a reorganization of the federal arts projects, which would have put them into the hands of the unions.

Mr. Damrosch thought this would be bad for art and said so.

So he was hauled up on the carpet and threatened with expulsion.

This same musicians' union exercises a veritable terror over any organizations that are dependant on musicians.

Mr. Arnold further might raise the question whether trade unions have the right to shut out qualified workers, or to set entrance fees which are so high that no ordinary worker can ever pay them.

$500 Initiation Fee

It is about as hard to get into the scenic designers' union as into the Century Club. The initiation fee is $500. Musicians pay an entrance fee of $50. $140 a month, rain or shine, and a percent tax when they are working—or playing cards backstage. But you have got to have a good wad of money in the bank in order to join the Stagehands' union.

And you can't just join the scenic designers' or stagehands' union. You have to be elected.

In the field of art—acting and music—the unions act as though the artists were workers on a moving belt. The restrictions regarding rehearsal hours are such that it is absolutely impossible to achieve that perfection of performance that is the essence of the artistic spirit.

Aliens Need Permission

Actors' Equity legislates regarding the rights of aliens. A foreign actor—which means anybody who has not his final citizenship papers—may not act in two plays within six months without special permission from the union. If the foreign actor goes through rehearsals, plays two nights, and the show shuts down, he is forcibly unemployed for the next half year.

This is in the nature of a tariff imposed by a union on imported services and it is a question, I should think, whether it is constitutional.

In the theater, the net effect of union policy is to deliver the theater over to the most speculative commercial spirit. It makes the theater dependent, to an unnecessary degree, upon money.

It costs so much to put on plays that no one can afford to experiment, to try co-operative ventures, to build up a public for a better or more serious or more original theater.

Are Unions To Blame?

That is one joker in the whole business. The unions fulminate against exploitation; against the overweening power of money. But they are largely responsible for this overweening power.

It takes a speculative capitalist, willing to undertake huge risks, in the hope of a gain totally disproportionate to his investment if the play succeeds, to finance any theatrical undertaking in the city of New York.

There can be neither an experimental theater, nor opera or theater for the people, unless the trade unions revise their monopolistic, parasitic and destructive policies.

STOUFFER OPENS PETITION FOR '40

Asks Judgeship Subject To Democratic Primaries

Special To The Review.

LISBON, Nov. 27.—Karl T. Stouffer, prosecuting attorney of Columbiana county who has announced his candidacy for the common pleas bench, is circulating his petition which he will file with the Columbiana county board of elections. His candidacy for the six-year judgeship which begins on Jan. 1, 1941, when Judge W. F. Lones retires, is subject to the Democratic primaries on Tuesday, May 14, 1940.

Mr. Stouffer, who is holding his first political position and was elected prosecutor in 1936, is a member of the Columbiana County Bar association, the Ohio State and the American Bar associations, and holds certificates admitting him to practice before the Supreme Court of the United States, and the supreme court of Ohio.

Born In Knox Township

Stouffer, who is 50 years old, was born at Homeworth, Knox township, on July 14, 1889, a son of the late Dr. Peter Stouffer Jr., who for 40 years was a practicing physician in the western part of Columbiana county.

He attended the two-room grade school at Homeworth and as a lad sold papers in the village, worked on a farm and helped out in the village butcher shop.

After completing his grade school education, Mr. Stouffer enrolled in the Canton Actual Business college and took a course in shorthand and typing in which he is very adept even today.

He then attended Mt. Union academy, and then entered Mt. Union college from which he was graduated with a bachelor of arts degree in 1916. He was a member of the football and track squads and sporting editor of the Dynamo at Mt. Union college where he majored in education and received a high school teacher's certificate.

Following his graduation from Mt. Union, he decided to take up the study of law and enrolled in Columbia university for a year. He also attended New York Law school for two months. He later entered Baldwin Wallace college, graduating from there with an LL. B. and took a course of study under Judge F. R. Gusweiler of Cincinnati, being admitted to the bar in December, 1921.

Served As Title Examiner

While attending Baldwin Wallace he was employed as an examiner of titles by the Land Title Abstract & Trust Co., and was a substitute teacher in the Cleveland schools. He also taught schools at New Richmond and Loveland, O. and at Conneville, Pa.

Returning to this county he was associated for a time in the law firm of Metzger and McCarthy, and then went to New York where he was employed in the law department of the Title Guarantee & Trust Co. for some time. During the World war he was an assistant in the bureau of enemy trade board.

Returning to Columbiana county in 1927 he spent much of his time at his home in Homeworth, caring for his aged father who died in 1929. He was persuaded by the party to enter politics in 1936.

Since taking office he has conducted six murder trials, with six out of the seven defendants now serving sentences, and also conducted a gambling investigation which resulted in 53 indictments and brought over $9,000 in fines into the county treasury.

Yearn For Parades

MONTICELLO, N. Y. — Mayor Luis de Hoyos tries to comply with all the demands of his constituents but this one stumped him. Recently he had a request from two gentlemen who wanted him to make it possible for them to march in a costume parade because they had thought up some dandy outfits. As their return address they gave "pouch 1, Woodbourne, N. Y.," the address used by inmates of Woodbourne Prison, the state institution for defective delinquents.

STEEL REPORTS DROP IN ORDERS

War Business Fails To Live Up To Early Expectations

By The Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, Nov. 27.—Steel orders are dropping and war business has failed to develop, the magazine Steel said today. The eyes of the industry are upon the British purchasing commission which was deluged by salesmen before its new offices could be completed.

Steel said orders this month will be well below the October total but unfilled business will require heavy production through January.

Prices for the first quarter of 1940 are expected to be announced within the next 10 days and this holds prospects of further activity. The national production rate held virtually steady at 93.5 percent of capacity last week, with no letdown over Thanksgiving.

Export Prices Shaded Lately

"Export prices on some products have been shaded lately in an attempt to attract business," Steel said.

"Even before partitions in new offices had been completed, the British purchasing commission (in New York) was deluged with salesmen and literature offering everything from heavy industrial equipment to knickknacks."

"No large flood of orders was forthcoming, however. Salesmen were told that 'our buyers will not arrive for another two weeks.'"

England has placed orders for 750,000 tons of scrap. But the scrap composite declined again for the seventh straight time to $19.50 a ton.

Backlog Shrinkage Presented

Orders continued sufficiently close to the volume of shipments to prevent any marked shrinkage in backlogs, Steel said.

Farm equipment builders are expecting 25 to 30 percent sales gain in the next 12 months. Automobile retail sales continue active. Railroad buying is light. Small plant

JAPANESE WILL ADMIT COAL TO BRITISH AREA

By The Associated Press.

TIENSIN, Nov. 27.—The Japanese army announced today it will permit 50,000 tons of coal to enter the blockaded British concession starting today.

The agreement, resulting from delicate negotiations between British consular and Japanese military officials, came as a northerly gale brought the coldest weather of the year.

Shivering residents of the British and French concessions, who have been besieged by coal companies without avail, hailed the news with relief. Americans live in both concessions.

Threat Of New Taxes Seen One Reason For Apathy

By VICTOR EUBANK
Associated Press Staff Writer
NEW YORK, Nov. 27.—The stock market today continued to lean moderately downward.
Losses ranged from fractions to around a point near the second hour.
Brokers attributed speculative apathy partly to threats of new taxes next year for defense purposes and to the possibility the recent upswing in industry will flatten out soon.
Bonds and commodities were irregular, as were the principal foreign securities markets.
Boardrooms scanned the survey of the magazine steel which said that announcement of first quarter prices is likely within 10 days.
Orders this month, it was added, will be well below the October total but are sufficiently close to the volume of shipments to prevent any marked shrinkage in blacklogs.
It is believed unfilled business will support heavy operations through January.
Steel producers, it is thought, shortly may be in a position to accept a larger amount of export business.
Railroad equipment builders and farm machinery manufacturers are reported coming in with sizable orders.

3 OF 4 ESCAPED OHIO PRISONERS CAPTURED

2 Guards Beaten In Break At Chillicothe Institution

By The Associated Press.
CHILLICOTHE, Nov. 27.—Federal and state officials pressed a hunt today for one of four federal reformatory inmates who attacked two guards and fled Saturday night.
Acting Warden W. H. Hiatt said that William Powell, 17, of Cheyenne, Wyo., still is at liberty, but three other prisoners who broke with him have been captured. They are Earl Cox of Miami, Fla., and Robert Johnson of East St. Louis, Ill., both 18, and Perry Moore, 18, of Chattanooga, Tenn.
The guards, E. W. Grundhoeffer and Louis Baurle, were treated for injuries received when beaten by the fugitives, Hiatt said. Their hurts were not serious.
According to the warden, Baurle was knocked unconscious and locked in a closet in a building for recalcitrant prisoners dubbed "little Alcatraz." The fugitives then surprised Grundhoeffer and forced him to unlock a safe containing keys to an outside door. Then they beat him severely and fled into the darkness. Neither guard was armed.
Cox was captured by guards within a few minutes. Moore was found on a nearby highway and Johnson was arrested in railroad yards.

GRADE CROSSING CRASHES KILL 3

2 Others Lose Lives In Ohio When Airplanes Collide

By The Associated Press.
Grade crossing accidents were responsible for three of 10 traffic deaths reported in Ohio over the week-end. Another Ohioan was killed in an airplane crash.

Janet Crippen, 19, and her sister, Margaret, 18, were killed at New London when their automobile was struck by a passenger train. Mrs. Lila Mae Reed, 35, of Gnadenbitten, met death at Uhrichsville when an automobile crashed into the side of a freight train.

Man And Wife Killed
Edgar Hall Jr., 26, and his wife, Roberta, 25, were killed when their auto left a highway and crashed into three trees near their home at Avon Lake.

An automobile collision near Steubenville on state route 7 took the life of Howard Welsh, 39, of Niles.

Millard Hess, 29, of near Steubenville, died after being taken from his car which was sidwiped and ditched on the same highway. Both had fractured skulls.

Welsh's wife, 35, suffered head and body injuries, and Olive Virginia Welsh, 15, suffered a broken hip.

Frank Terzbizan, 57, of Cleveland, was killed in a collision at Canonsburg, Pa.

John Malcolm Fowler, 48, of High Point, N. C., was killed at Cleveland when he was struck by an automobile and thrown under the wheels of a street car.

Plane Crash Kills Two
Clark R. (Chris) Matthews, 50, of Marietta died in an airplane crash at Chesapeake, O., following a mid-air collision with another plane. His companion, J. C. Ro-brock, 35, district superintendent of the Hoosier Engineering Co. of Huntington, Ind., also was killed.

The pilot of the other plane landed safely. Matthews was service manager of the Huntington-Fronton-Chesapeake airport at Chesapeake.

Emmett Hamer, 22, of near Middleburg, O., a Purdue university student, and Mary Lincoln, 17, were injured critically when a plane flown by Hamer crashed near Urbana. Each suffered fractures of both legs and other injuries.

Leo Riedy, 69, of Sandusky died today from injuries suffered when his auto overturned while trying to pass a truck yesterday.

Three other Sandusky residents injured are Anna Riedy, 69, wife of Leo; John G. Gundlach, 62, driver, and Mrs. Frances Gundlach, 59, sister-in-law of the driver.

Martins Ferry Man Killed, 8 Injured In Wheeling Area

Special To The Review.
WHEELING, Nov. 27.—One person was killed and eight others were injured, one seriously, in a series of traffic mishaps in and near Wheeling during the week-end.

George Smith, 50, of 515 South First st., Martins Ferry, was killed almost instantly by a truck as he walked on the River rd., north of First st., Saturday night.

sowing mines in British channels, but asserted she had the right to do so if she desired.)
British naval sources expressed the belief the reprisal will be more effective than in the World war because, they said, of Germany's need for cash and foreign credits.

Britain is expected to explain, during the brief delay in making the blockade effective, that she is anxious to avoid penalizing neutral trade while trying to punish the reich.

(France announced officially Nov. 22 that she had decided to take similar measures to cut off German exports.)
Six neutrals with large shipping interests—Holland, Denmark, Belgium, Sweden, Italy and Japan—have made advance representations against the decision announced by Prime Minister Chamberlain to "subject to seizure on the high seas" all "exports of German origin or ownership" whether carried in Nazi ships or under neutral flags.

Prime Minister Chamberlain, in a broadcast to the empire and the United States last night, declared "none of the shipping losses affects our overwhelming naval superiority," and said that "already we know the secrets of the magnetic mine as we already have mastered the U-boat," the prime minister assured Britain, expressing "complete confidence in our ultimate victory."

He also drew a distinction between war and peace aims.
Britain's war aim, he said, is the "defeat of that aggressive, bullying mentality which seeks continually to dominate other peoples by force."
And her peace aim: To "establish a new Europe in which nations which inhabit it will approach their difficulties with goodwill and mutual tolerance" and "with some machinery capable of conducting and guiding the development of a new Europe in the right direction."

She gave him a five-minute lecture of the sinfulness of stealing. When she finished, the intruder dropped the sweater and ran.

A Trick Of Death
HELENA, Mont.—Jacob Iverson visited his old friend, Neil D. McKinnon, who was ill. After he left, McKinnon died. Ten minutes later, unaware of his friend's death, Iverson himself fell dead of a heart attack.

Close Call
CHICAGO—Joseph Messenger of Whiting, Ind., upon orders from a police squad, brought his gasoline-laden truck to a halt.

He didn't get a chance to ask any questions as the policemen shouted that the rear of his cab was on fire. Firemen extinguished the flames before they reached the 6,450 gallons of gasoline carried in the trailer.

An Ill Wind
DAYTON—Because a hat blew away, an airplane lay in wreckage today. While C. E. Iyers, Indianapolis pilot, was spinning the propeller of his plane at Dayton municipal airport, his hat blew off.

As Iyers was chasing the hat the plane took off in the wind, rising about three feet and then crashing into a pole.

200 NEGRO WORKERS ENTER DODGE PLANT

U. A. W.'s Pickets Jeer, But Fail To Offer Violence

By The Associated Press.
DETROIT, Nov. 27.—Approximately 200 Negro foundry workers entered the Chrysler main Dodge plant today unmolested as several thousand United Automobile Workers union (CIO) pickets jeered, but offered no violence.

"Let the strike breakers go in," a union spokesman cried through loud speakers. "There aren't enough to operate the plant and what the corporation wants is for you to stop them and start a fight."

A force of 1,000 police stood by to prevent a possible repetition of Friday's violence in the 52-day old dispute.

Police estimates placed the number of pickets on hand when the workers began entering at upward of 3,500.

The normal working force at the plant is 20,000.

OPERATOR TO REOPEN SHAFT WHERE 2 DIED

Special To The Review.
EAST PALESTINE, Nov. 27.—State approval has been given Robert Grim to reopen a deep coal mine on his farm north of here, where two men died a year ago tomorrow in one of the county's worst mining accidents.

The workers were suffocated after a powder explosion hurled blazing timber into the shaft.

Mr. Grim said the mine has two openings and meets state requirements in all other ways. The mine shanty, where powder is stored, has been moved the required distance from the mouth of the pit.

TRIAL BEGINS ON SUIT FOR $25,000 DAMAGES

Special To The Review.
LISBON, Nov. 27.—Trial of a $25,000 damage action against the city of Salem began today before a jury and Judge W. F. Lones in common pleas court.

The plaintiff, Mrs. Catherine Vignovich, operator of a Salem service station, claims the damages from sewer water that backed into her place of business and blames the city for negligence in not maintaining adequate sewers for drainage.

Where Art Thou? Lovelorn Romeo Presses Hunt For His Juliet

By The Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Nov. 27.—Some-where on Long Island, Lovelorn George (Romeo) Lowther III, is seeking his Juliet, 20-year-old Eileen Herrick, as his attorney prepared another legal skirmish to determine whether she had been "again spirited away and held hidden and incommunicado" in violation of a court order.

Eileen left the hospital where she had been sent to rest and think things over, Friday night—although George considered the move didn't expire until 5 p. m. Saturday—and was taken by her mother to the home of an undisclosed friend.

Thus another chapter in the romance of Eileen and George was being written — a story climaxed by Lowther's demand for a writ of habeas corpus, claiming his love was being held from him by her family against her will.

That phase ended Nov. 15 in dismissal of the writ and an agreement that after 10 days of rest in the hospital Eileen could see Lowther as much as she wished and marry him if she wanted to.

Today, however, the girl's father, Walter R. Herrick, former park commissioner, said he was sure the girl had changed her mind about wanting to marry Lowther.

BIG CROWD EXPECTED FOR SAFETY MEETING

A large crowd is expected tonight at 8 in the Manelovey building on Mulberry st. when Fred F. Young, chairman of the Citizens' Safety Council of East Liverpool, will discuss traffic hazards and the council's safety campaign.

Mr. Young's address, before an open meeting of the East End Civic league, will mark the first public discussion of traffic hazards, aside from the council's meetings, since the safety drive began several months ago.

Motion pictures of baking processes and several comedies will be shown by a representative of a local baking firm. The regular league business session will precede Mr. Young's talk.

PRISONER'S PLEA HIGHLIGHTS PLAY ON TEMPERANCE

George Hammond Featured In Drama To Be Given On Tuesday Night

A plea of a condemned man for justice that has thrilled thousands of persons throughout the United States will be delivered by George Young Hammond of Hollywood, Calif., in his famous drama, "Prisoner At The Bar." Tuesday at 7:30 p. m. in the First Methodist church. The trial deals with a man, Ralph Jones, charged with the murder of his wife while under the influence of liquor. The state charges that the crime was committed in the presence of the defendant's 6-year-old daughter, who is called to testify against him. The defendant charging others in the court room with the killing, the battle between opposing attorneys over the admittance of the child's testimony, and the commotion in the trial when the father attempts to stop the child from telling her story are some of the highlights of the drama. The play has been arranged by the Methodist board of temperance. Mr. Hammond plays the part of the prisoner, on trial for his life, while Hayward H. Johnson of Portland, Ore., who directs the play, appears in the role of the prosecuting attorney. Local people who will assist in the production include Harry Brock, former municipal judge, as the trial judge; Rev. Norman Sommerville, as the defense attorney; Mrs. John Decker as the star witness; Rev. Theodore Peterson of Wellsville as the fingerprint expert of the police department; Berdie Ruth Peterson as the prisoner's little daughter; Rev. W. A. Miller as the sheriff; Rev. W. D. Heaton as the clerk, and Rev. W. J. Hooker as the bailiff.

COURT SCENE. This is a dramatic moment from "Prisoner at the Bar," temperance drama to be given Tuesday at 7:30 p. m. in the First Methodist church under the auspices of the Temperance board.

Members Of Jury The jury will include Attorney Francis H. Lang, Rev. J. F. Dinit, William T. McNutt, Henry J. Cox, Roland Edgar, Frank Harding, Mrs. William L. Taylor and Mrs. A. J. Neiser of East Liverpool, and E. E. Alton, Rev. L. B. Douglas and Mrs. Dale Kessel of Wellsville. There will be no admission charge. The play is being given by the church board in connection with its nationwide program of temperance education. An offering will be taken.

The Creeping Man

by Frances Shelley Wees

YESTERDAY: Murder, not suicide, is Michael's verdict. Also, Mrs. Murchison is a bigamist. Devotee her first husband. Murchison bought the diamonds to cover Marie's theft of them. War-wet-eran Smith tells Michael he saw Murchison buying an oar-lock.

CHAPTER 42

The Hairpin

SEVERAL hours later, on the afternoon of the same day, Tuck stood looking out of a window in the living room overlooking the Horseshoe. A car drove up to the Devote door, and Mrs. Murchison accompanied by Jared Devote came out of the house and drove away.

"Bunny," she exclaimed. "He's gone, Jared Devote, I mean." Bunny looked up from the needle-point chair cover she was working at. "Well, Tuck?"

"Don't you see? It's all right—let's go out and hunt for your Creeping Man, Bunny! Out where you saw him, the other night! Maybe he had a ladder, and came up over the cliffs. We could find the mark, perhaps. You know Michael hasn't paid any attention to that story, because he seemed to have his mind just set on Duncan being guilty. Do you believe Duncan is guilty, Bunny?"

Bunny laid down her work and crossed her hands over her knee. She looked up at Tuck with a hint of pain in the clear gray eyes. "I don't know what to think, dear. Michael's awfully clever, and fully decent. He wouldn't talk that way to me about Duncan unless he had some basis for it."

He never talks like that without a reason. But honestly, looking at Duncan, listening to him talk, can you believe that he is the . . . the fiend who is running wild here?"

"No," said Tuck promptly. "I cannot. I don't think Michael's telling fibs, but I think he's mistaken. I think he's prejudiced, for the first time since I've known him. So, let's go ourselves, Bunny, and find out what we can. If we can find out anything, I'll go to Father Forrester with it if Michael won't listen."

"Michael would listen. He is fair minded, lamb. I don't want to admit it, but I must."

"Bunny," Tuck said, her eyes on the geraniums blooming in the window boxes, "are you in love with Duncan?"

Bunny frowned. "I don't know," she said, as if they were discussing a remote question. "I don't honestly know. I could have been, I suppose, if I'd seen more of him. I'm all upset and sort of miserable these days because it seems as if it's no use having faith in human nature any longer if that nice boy turns out to be a dreadful criminal. I didn't see very much of him, Tuck."

"No. Well, I like him. I'd like you to marry him. You make a lovely looking couple, both of you so tall, and his eyes so blue, and his hair so wavy, and his shoulders so broad, and you slim and gray-eyed and black-haired and generally dashing."

Bunny laughed in spite of herself, and jumped up to give Tuck a hug. "You are a lamb," she said. "I feel better. Do we go to the woods, then?"

"Feeling quite sure," said Tuck seriously, in a lowered tone, "that the real villain of the piece, as yet unmasked, has gone away—I'm not afraid to go. What could he do to us, anyway? Nothing."

"She could have let him in, that night, couldn't she?" Bunny asked. "It's all there. Motive, opportunity, everything. You know, Tuckie, I think Duncan believes that, too. He's afraid he can't prove it. He hates Devote. It was Devote he was threatening to kill, Tuck. It must have been."

He didn't mean it, but you can't blame him for saying it. He doesn't know the truth, and he thinks that woman is his sister-in-law, and—she paused—"he hates her, too. In spite of what they're trying to make out, I'm sure of that much."

They reached the garden gate, and stood hesitatingly there; behind them the house and security; before them the dark woods, but, perhaps, the unravelling of a secret.

DARK WOODS At the moment, Charlotte Jean came running down the path. "Mrs. Forrester, ma'am, you gave me quite a start, indeed you did," she said, wiping her hands on her apron. "Mr. Michael said that I was to keep my eyes on you, and if you started off into the woods, like, I was to tell you to come back."

Tuck's eyes were round and innocent. "But why, Charlotte Jean? It's perfectly safe now."

The two girls went on down the path, reached the fork where the fainter trail turned off toward the river and followed it. The woods were dark and full of mysterious shadows; Tuck jumped off the path, when a rabbit hopped out of the underbrush. "I don't have the slightest idea what I'm afraid of," she whispered, "but the place gets me. Oh!"

"What is it?"

Tuck put her hand over Bunny's. "Something moved. . . I saw something there, in the shadows. . . It moved against the light. . . just ahead in that clump of trees. There!" She clutched Bunny's arm as she spoke. "Don't you see?"

Bunny did not need to answer, for just as Tuck spoke the figure in the shadows resolved itself into Dr. McBain, wandering along the path toward them, head down, pipe in his mouth. He looked up quickly and was obviously as startled to see them as they had been to see him.

"I hope I didn't startle you?" he said in a moment.

"I'm afraid you did," Tuck's voice was shaky. "It's such an eerie sort of place, and we weren't looking for anyone to be here."

"Eerie? I'm afraid I hadn't noticed it. I come here frequently to think over any problem that comes up." He looked at them kindly, and yet inquiringly. "You're both pale," he said sharply. "I suppose it's this air of mystery and terror surrounding us. My wife is really ill with it all."

"It's been awful, hasn't it?" Tuck said. "I thought Mrs. McBain couldn't be well. She looked dreadfully pale yesterday."

"I'm glad she isn't living as close to it as you are," he said, tapping his pipe on his boot heel. "Your husband is working hard. I suppose I haven't had a long talk with him for several days." He dropped his voice, "I sincerely hope he is making headway," he said.

"I think he is. He's down town working this morning. He doesn't tell us very much, you know. It's a very complicated business."

McBain's face was stern. "It is that," he agreed heartily. "We shall be more than glad when it is cleared up. It is terrible—terrible. I do not . . . oh, I shouldn't say that. . . I did not believe that Dr. Murchison could possibly be dead. I am beginning to change my opinion."

He drew a deep breath. "Oh, well, I mustn't burden you with my feelings. I'm thankful that it's Mr. Forrester, and not I, who has to deal with it."

"He is a very keen lad. I noticed how very cleverly he concealed his real knowledge at the inquest, regarding Miss Lissey's last talk with you. No one who didn't know . . . would have guessed that he didn't tell all he knew."

"No, I don't believe they would. Of course he couldn't possibly tell everything she told us."

"No. Poor soul! I detested her heartily in life, but it seems a very small thing to cost one's life. However . . . I must be off." He looked at his wrist watch. "I have a lecture, Good afternoon . . . and a pleasant walk."

Big Log

The two girls went on only a few steps until they came to the end of the path, or, rather, to the edge of the wood. Perhaps at some time the trees here had extended to the water's edge, but they had been cleared for a distance of an eighth of a mile along the river and perhaps twenty feet back from the edge. This was the rocky stretch of ground . . . although Michael had not told them . . . where he had seen Miss Lissey with her reading glass. This also was the place, just at the end of the path, where Mrs. Devote's body had been found. Not knowing the exact spot, they did not shiver, and avoid it, but went on slowly, up the bank.

"Do you see that big log, about half way up the clearing?" Bunny asked quietly. "It's just under the overhang of the trees. Look . . . that big stump is almost directly between it and the water. Tuck, that's where we were sitting the

YOU CAN GET A LOAN OF $100 IF YOU CAN PAY BACK $4.46 A MONTH

Read how you can borrow promptly and without asking others for help—No credit inquiries of friends or relatives

YOU need money? You can borrow—quickly and in privacy—if you can make small regular payments on your loan. You can borrow for any worthy purpose—to clean up old debts, to meet an emergency, to pay doctor or dental bills, to take advantage of an opportunity.

Suppose you need $100 and can repay $9.46 a month. Your installments will repay a $100 loan in full in twelve months. Or, if you wish smaller payments, $4.46 a month for thirty months will also repay a $100 loan.

Choose your own payments Find the amount of cash you need in the first column of the loan table. Then read across, picking out the monthly payment you wish to make. Note that you may make very small payments if you prefer. Or you may pay larger installments and pay up sooner. See how little your loan costs if you repay in a short time. A loan of $100 repaid in four months costs only $5.04.

Simple to borrow All you do to get a Household Finance loan is tell us about your needs. We ask for no salary or wage assignment, no stocks or bonds. Loans are made on furniture, car or note. No credit inquiries are made of friends or relatives. You don't have to ask friends or fellow-workers to sign the loan papers with you. You get your loan promptly.

One rate to everyone Household has only one price—the same rate to all, whether new customers or former borrowers.

In case of sickness or unemployment Household shows the borrower every consideration. Last year Household foreclosed on only one chattel mortgage for each 10,000 loans—an action taken then only as protection against fraud.

MISS M. KATHERINE PETERSON, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Howard W. Peterson of 429 Park ave. west, Mansfield, became the bride of Mr. John J. Purinton III, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard S. Purinton of Skyview Saturday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock in the home of the bride's parents. Rev. Peterson, superintendent of the Mansfield district of Methodist churches, officiated at the marriage of his daughter, assisted by Rev. Roscoe Luper Foulke, pastor of the Central Methodist church, before the mantel in the living room, which was decorated with yellow and white chrysanthemums and lighted tapers.

The bride, who was unattended, wore a street-length dress of blue crepe with harmonizing accessories and her shoulder corsage was of pink and lilacs of the valley. She is a graduate of Mt. Vernon High school and attended Mt. Union college in Alliance and Antioch college at Yellow Springs, where she is a member of the Alpha Pi Delta sorority.

The bridegroom was graduated from East Liverpool High school and attended the Friesland Ranch school in Tuscon, Ariz. He is associated with his father in the Purinton Pottery Co.

Following the ceremony a wedding dinner was served 20 guests. Mr. and Mrs. Purinton then left for a short honeymoon and after Jan. 1 will make their home in Wellsville.

Those attending the ceremony from here were Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Purinton and sons, Blair, and Miss Ida Walper.

Mrs. D. Ogilvie was hostess Saturday afternoon to members of the New Century club at her home on McKim Ave. The quotation for the day was: "If we traverse the world, it is possible to find cities without walls, without letters, without kings, without wealth, without coin, without schools and theaters; but a city without a temple, or that practiseth not worship, prayer and the like, no one ever saw."—Plutarch.

Mrs. D. Park Chapman, chairman of the program committee opened the meeting with a talk on the "History of Churches in America—From Colonial Times to the Present Day" and told of the historical churches she had visited. The program was introduced as follows by Mrs. F. B. Chambers: Piano solos, "Chapel Bells" (Slagter), and "Consolation" (Mendelssohn), Mrs. Dan Richards; paper, "Famous Churches of the Last Century," Mrs. John McEane, who told the story of "The Little Brown Church in the Vale"; vocal duet, "The Little Brown Church in the Vale," Mrs. J. T. Carey and Mrs. Chapman; piano solo, "Prelude in G Minor" (Chopin), Mrs. Richards; talk, "Famous Cathedrals of the Present Day," Mrs. Carey, who also read a poem, "The Country Church," written by Mrs. Chambers; vocal solo, "The Garden of Prayer," Mrs. Chapman. There were 18 guests present.

During the business session, conducted by the vice president, Mrs. W. E. Dunlap, plans were made for a Christmas program Dec. 16 at the home of Mrs. George Faulk, Elysian Way.

Mrs. Ralph Milligan of Cleveland was a guest of the club.

Twenty-five members of the Bible Literary club met Saturday afternoon with Mrs. J. T. Williamson, Vine st. Opening the Thanksgiving program, each member responded to roll call with an item on thankfulness.

Mrs. Warren Wolfe announced the program following a business session conducted by the president, Miss Nell Robinson. The club has donated $10 to the public health fund; $5 to the Red Cross and $5 to the Christmas seal fund. Mrs. E. K. Bennett was elected a member of the board on the organization of welfare for the blind. Members were urged to attend the Federation meeting tonight at the Mary Patterson memorial, when a former club member, Mrs. Arthur J. Savage of Beaver Falls, will be the speaker.

A sale of articles made by the blind was conducted by Mrs. Williamson and Mrs. Blaine Cochran. The program was presented as follows: Reading of the 136th psalm, Mrs. William Barlow; "Pilgrim Fathers," Mrs. G. L. Brokaw; a display of a miniature Pilgrim village; "Log Houses" was discussed by Mrs. W. O. Bloor; "Child Life in Colonial Days," Mrs. James K. Moffatt; "Wild Life in Colonial Days," Mrs. John Metters; "Indian Wigwams and Tepees," Mrs. Bennett; "Indian Canoes," Mrs. J. E. Anderson; "Indian Customs," Mrs. Herbert C. Mallinson; reading of a Thanksgiving story, Mrs. C. C. Ruckman, and reading of the President's proclamation, Mrs. W. Dwight Heaton.

The quotation for the day was repeated by the members as follows: "Praise God from whom all blessings flow. Praise Him who sendeth joy and woe. The Lord who takes—the Lord who gives—O Praise Him, all that dies, and lives."—Dinah M. M. Craik.

Refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by her daughter, Miss Bernadine Williamson. Guests were Mrs. H. A. Moss and Mrs. Edgar Allison.

Start Now To Fill Up Your Christmas Cookie Jar

By MRS. ALEXANDER GEORGE
Associated Press Feature Writer
TO LOTS of folks the Christmas season starts when it's time to make up holiday cookies. Treasured recipes are taken from their hiding places, youngsters pick out nuts and the whole family takes a hand in the annual cookie-making rites.

No Yule season is complete without a generous supply of these, fruity, spicy, nutty delicacies. They make enticing gifts for those far and near. And never let the cookie jar become empty during the Christmas season.

Holiday cookies require the very best ingredients and plenty of fruits, nutmeats and spices so that they will retain full flavor and freshness while they age.

As soon as the cookies have cooled, store them in tightly covered jars in a cool place. Then they will keep for some time.

Here is a selection of five Christmas cookies:

Chocolate Chip Cookies
8 squares dipping chocolate
1/2 cup butter or other shortening
1/2 cup granulated sugar
1/4 cup brown sugar, firmly-packed

1 egg, well-beaten
1 cup sifted flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon soda
1/2 cup chopped nut meats
1 teaspoon vanilla

Cut chocolate in quarter-inch cubes. Cream butter. Add sugars gradually and cream together until light and fluffy. Add egg and mix thoroughly. Sift flour once. Measure. Add salt and soda and sift again. Add flour in two parts and mix well. Add cut chocolate, nuts and vanilla and mix thoroughly. Drop from teaspoon on greased baking sheet two inches apart. Bake in moderate oven (375 degrees F.) 10 to 12 minutes. Makes about 50 cookies.

Butterscotch Drops
Subtly flavored, these make grand gifts. Cream 2 1/2 cups of fat (part butter) until soft. Add 2 cups dark brown sugar and mix until very soft. Then add 3 beaten eggs. 2 teaspoons cinnamon, 1 teaspoon cloves, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon vanilla and 1/2 cup buttermilk. Beat well. Blend in 4 1/2 cups flour, 1 teaspoon soda and 1 teaspoon of baking powder. Chill the dough over night (longer if convenient). Drop portions dough onto greased baking sheets. Flatten each cookie and spread chopped dates and nutmeats over them. Bake 10 minutes in a moderate oven.

Coconut Slices
It's the toasted coconuts in these that make a hit. Cream 2 1/2 cups butter, add 1 1/2 cups sugar and beat until creamy. Mix in 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1/2 teaspoon each of lemon and almond extracts, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1 1/2 cups sweet cream, 3 eggs, 2 1/2 cups toasted coconut, 4 1/2 cups flour, 1 teaspoon cream of tartar and 1/2 teaspoon of soda. Press into a buttered loaf pan and chill 24 hours—or longer. Cut off thin slices, top with halved candied cherries and bake 10 minutes.

Peanut Cookies
"Hot off the press," delicately flavored, make most welcome gifts. Cream together 1/2 cup fat and 2 1/2 cups peanut butter. Mix in 1 cup brown sugar and a cup of granulated. Add 2 eggs, 1/2 cup cream salt, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 4 cups flour and a teaspoon each of baking powder and soda. Drop portions of the dough onto greased baking sheets. Sprinkle the cookies with chopped roasted peanuts and bake 10 minutes in a moderate oven.

Buck Faithful Honor Big Ten Champs Today

Ohio State To Pick Captain At Appreciation Dinner

By FRITZ HOWELL
Associated Press Sports Writer
COLUMBUS, Nov. 27—The Buckeye capital's football fans pay tribute tonight to Ohio State university's Western conference champs with an appreciation dinner at which the Bucks will name their 1940 captain.

Hilarity over the first out-right league title since 1920 will be quieted a bit by the memory of Saturday's 21-14 setback from Michigan—a Wolverine conquest which came after the Bucks had constructed a first-period 14-point edge.

The Big Ten season, for the Bucks, was just 51 seconds too long. If it had been a minute shorter, Ohio would have wound up its conference chores unbeaten, but the hungry Wolves rammed over their game-winning touchdown with 50 seconds to go, on one of the oldest plays in the game.

Wolves Score On Fake Kick
With the score knotted at 14-all, and the headlineman signaling fourth down and 24 yards to go, the Wolves lined up in place-kick formation. Fred Trosko was holding the ball on the 32-yard line, and Tom Harmon was in kicking position. Harmon needed at least a 50-yard kick to get over the bar 42 yards away, and few of the 8,227 spectators expected him to try.

He didn't. He faked the kick, blocked a couple of Ohio would-be kickblockers, and Trosko lifted the pigskin and romped around his left end for the winning touchdown.

A half hour later came the news that Northwestern had held Iowa's rambling tall corn lads to a 7-7 tie, giving the Bucks the undisputed title. A Buckeye victory or tie against Michigan would have served the same purpose.

It was Ohio's fourth outright Big Ten championship, the others coming in 1916, 1917 and 1920.

Michigan's Marker Not 'Break'
Michigan's winning touchdown was the only one of Saturday's quintet of markers that did not result from a break. The Bucks converted two intercepted passes into touchdown drives, while the Wolves counted their first two after snatching up Buckeye fumbles.

Ohio collegiate football drama—except for the Dayton-Ohio Wesleyan epilogue next Saturday—was a matter of history today. Muskingum was the Ohio loop winner, and Little DeSales went into the record books with the year's only unbeaten-tied performance. Saturday's results: Bethany 13, Heidelberg 0; Wittenberg 14, Oberlin 0; Upsala 46, Alfred Holbrook 0, and Michigan 21, Ohio State 14. SPORTS EAST LIVERPOOL REVIEW

THESE ARE ALL-BIG TEN STARS PICKED BY COACHES. Here is the 1939 Western conference all-star football team selected for the Associated Press by the Big Ten coaches. Unusually close races marked the voting for the line posts and remarkable agreement was shown on those deserving positions in the back field which was one of the most finely balanced in recent years. The players who made the first team (all shown above) were: Ends, Esco Sarkkinen, Ohio State, and Erwin Prasse, Iowa; tackles, Win Pedersen, Minnesota, and James Reeder, Illinois; guards, Hal Method, Northwestern, and Vic Marino, Ohio State; center, John Haman, Northwestern; quarterback, Don Scott, Ohio State; halfbacks, Nile Kinnick, Iowa, and Tom Harmon, Michigan; fullback, George Paskvan, Wisconsin.

REDS SHUN PLOT AGAINST YANKS

Giles Distains Tactics For 'Hamstringing' Champs

By The Associated Press.
CINCINNATI, Nov. 27—The desperate, devious master minds over in the American league won't get much help in their plots to hamstring the New York Yankees—at least not from those same Yankees' latest victims, the National league champions Reds.

Such plots are put forth every so often by one or the other of the seven clubs that have shared the American league cellar on about equal terms annually ever since Joe DiMaggio, Bill Dickey, et al., were knee-high to Hector.

Quite likely they will be woven into a master plot, a sort of electric affair taking in hamstringing tactics, for presentation to the major league medicine show and ivory bazaar, here next week.

Giles Distains 'Hamstringing'
Of them General Manager Warren C. Giles of the Reds who is given to thinking a long time before speaking, will have none.

"Clubs," said the white-haired boss of the team that admittedly would have to meet the Yankees but once a year under any circumstances, "can't be legislated into pennant winners or contenders."

"A combination of hard work, foresight, good management, good scouting, and money will do more to produce winners than all the legislation anyone can think of."

(That combination just about describes the Yankees.)

"Clark Griffith," Giles continued, "proposes that a championship club can't acquire any players from any club in its league except on waivers. If that legislation were passed, it would prevent Cincinnati from making any deals in the National league except for such players as all other clubs would waive on."

Browns Submit Rule
"The St. Louis Browns have submitted one which, as I understand it, would prevent the optioning of a player without waivers. The present rule permits a player to be obtained without waivers during his first three years in the major leagues. That also is probably directed at the Yankees because they acquire good young players and then option them to their minor league clubs."

"I believe the present rule is a good one. This helps the minor leagues get more money for their players."

Of Larry MacPhail's demand for a post-season free-for-all in place of the well-known world series, Giles only predicted that it wouldn't "get very far."

Montana Ranch Sinks

TERRY, Mont. — Ed Bright's ranch is suffering from a severe case of fallen arches. Half of the land is sinking at the rate of five feet a day. In ten days it has sunk 50 feet, twisting and tearing loose trees. Some persons believe an old burned-out coal deposit may lie under the sinking land, others suspect an oil movement and others blame a subterranean stream to be flowing to the Yellowstone river, three-quarters of a mile to the north.

Local Skaters Win

The Winland Junior roller racing team Sunday defeated Beaver Falls, in all three events in a race here. William Hull won the one-half mile from Paul Brown; Francis Osborne won the one-mile from Carl Reiser. The final event was a 30-lap relay race.

Lions Fall By Wayside As Four Elevens Fight For Pro Grid Laurels

By TOM SILER

Associated Press Sports Writer
CHICAGO, Nov. 27—The Detroit Lions erstwhile sensations of the National football league, have fallen by the wayside, but four other teams still are in the running for the professional championship.

The regular season ends Sunday when the two title-bearing contests will be played in New York and Detroit. The Defending Champion New York Giants entertain the Washington Redskins to decide the eastern division title and Green Bay plays the Lions.

If the Packers win or tie the western division crown is theirs, but should they lose they would be tied with the Chicago Bears, necessitating a playoff.

The Lions were eliminated Sunday when the Redskins gave them a 31-7 setback.

Cleveland, surprise victor over Detroit a week ago, had Green Bay beaten until the Packers pulled a "Frank Merriwell" late in the game to win, 7-6.

The Chicago Bears clung to their slim chance of tying the Packers for western honors by romping over the Chicago Carus, 48-7, running their total points to 298, a new record.

The Giants had little trouble disposing of Brooklyn, 28-7, to keep their won-loss record identical with Washington's and set up their pivotal clash in the final next Sunday.

Pittsburgh finally crashed through with its first victory in 17 games, defeating Philadelphia, 24-12.

CLARKSON

A birthday surprise party was held Friday night immediately following the regular meeting of Clarkson Grange, honoring Mrs. Denver Williams.

$5,000 MINIMUM
SET FOR CENSUS OF PLANTS HERE

Invassers To Collect Data
On City's Business And Industries Jan. 2

All manufacturing and printing and publishing establishments of last Liverpool whose value of products exceeds $5,000 this year will come under the forthcoming industrial census beginning Jan. 2. I. B. Barth, secretary of the chamber of commerce, pointed out today.

Part of a nationwide count and phase of the general census next year, the enumerators will ask data on the number of establishments, number of proprietors and firm members, number of salaried personnel and wage earners and salary and wages paid during the year.

Data on material cost

Other statistics will include cost of materials, fuel, purchased electric energy and contract work, value of products, and the value added by manufacture.

In addition to these so-called general statistics, data on inventories, number and total rated horsepower capacity of prime movers and generators, and expenditures made during the year for new plant and equipment will be collected.

The chief materials used in manufacturing and the man-hours will be obtained and published for selected industries.

The census of manufacturers will cover approximately 200,000 establishments which will be classified in about 400 separate industries. Separate statistics for these industries will be published for the census as a whole for each state, industrial area, county and city where the publication does not disclose exactly or approximately the operation of a single establishment or group of establishments under the same ownership.

12,000 To Take Census

The field work will require a staff of 12,000 enumerators, working under 550 supervisors directed by 100 area supervisors in census branch offices set up temporarily in convenient cities throughout the country.

The census will not be a sample but a complete enumeration. Reporting is required by law. The field work will be completed within four or five months. At least the basic facts will be published by the states and industries during 1940.

Statistics also will be published by industrial areas, counties, cities and towns as rapidly as they can be tabulated and prepared in report form, Mr. Barth said.

At least 100 to hear
Rep. Earl Lewis talk

Reservations indicate at least 100 persons will attend a dinner-meeting tonight at 6 when Rep. Earl Lewis of St. Clairsville will speak before the East Liverpool Junior Chamber of Commerce in the Travelers hotel.

Attorney Francis Lang, president, said the 18th district republican congressmen will discuss his experiences in the recent congress. It will be his first appearance here since last spring.

PALESTINE POOR
AID LOAD DROPS

8 Leave Rolls In November Setting New 1939 Low

Special To The Review.
EAST PALESTINE, Nov. 27 — This community's relief load dropped eight cases during November and today there are only 52 families on the rolls, city relief officials reveal. This is a new low for 1939.

The first of the month, 60 cases were receiving aid, but improved business conditions and resulting improvement in private employment reduced the rolls throughout the month.

Year's High In August

In August the year's high was established with 128 cases listed. A year ago this month and throughout December of 1938 there were only 45 cases of relief.

There are 30 cases in which there is no member of the family physically able to work.

City Relief Administrator Charles Conkle anticipates a relief fund crisis after the first of the year, because of the defeat of the tax levy proposal at the Nov. 7 election.

Need Matching Money

As drawn up by council, the levy was designed to provide funds for one year's matching with state money. A new state regulation provides that relief money is issued to cities and towns only on a dollar-for-dollar matching basis, so council will be faced with the necessity of obtaining funds for this matching.

Mr. Conkle anticipates that the relief load will remain at 50 or less as long as the present business boom continues.

A pick-up in WPA employment, such as the proposed city park, swimming pool project, would reduce the rolls to the 30 unworkables, Mr. Conkle said.

M. J. Sweeney Installed As Leader Of Pup Tent

Mike J. Sweeney was installed as seam squirrel of Vin Muscatel Pup Tent 12, Military Order of the Cootie, at a meeting Sunday afternoon in the Veterans of Foreign Wars' home on Lincoln ave.

Other elective officers at the meeting were:

Walter McDonald, blanket bum; Jesse Estell, hide gimp; William Dolby, custodian of the crummy duffle bag; Montclair Clutter, pill pusher; John R. Fox, tightwad, (18-months); William Watkins, tightwad, (12-months); William Warrick, tightwad, (six months); Howard Perry, sky pilot.

Appointive officers, named by Mr. Sweeney, are:

John R. Fox, shirt reader; Jack Erdler, provost marshal; Ervin Tice, jimmy legs; Charles R. Logan, hungry nit.

William Warrick, past seam squirrel, was the installing officer. A social period when lunch was served followed the installation. The next meeting will be Dec. 14 in the V. F. W. hall.

Ohio's Judge Florence Allen
Boomed For High Court Post

Outstanding Woman Jurist
Gave Up Promising Music Career For Law Field

FLORENCE ALLEN
She likes swing music.

By EARL BERKLEY
Associated Press Staff Writer
WASHINGTON, Nov. 27 — President Roosevelt is being urged again to appoint a woman to the Supreme Court and one frequently mentioned is Florence Allen, who left a promising career in music for the legal profession.

Miss Allen, highest ranking woman member of the federal judiciary whose achievements already rank her among the nation's outstanding women, likes swing music and doesn't worry too much about precedent. She bobbed her hair long before that style was accepted among conservatives of her sex.

Cites Music Likes

Of music she once said, "I either want it very beautiful or markedly swing—I don't want any sugary sweet."

The name of Miss Allen has been put forward as a possible appointee to the Supreme Court each time there has been a vacancy in recent years. The present vacancy was caused by the death of Justice Pierce Butler.

The noted Ohio woman would take to the high court experience rarely achieved by her sex. She is a member of the sixth circuit court of appeals, the only woman to hold a place in a federal court of general jurisdiction.

On a previous occasion, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt said she saw no reason why a woman should not be appointed to the highest court. The first lady suggested that appointments should be made "on the basis of a person rather than sex."

Once a teacher of Greek and a music critic for the Cleveland Plain Dealer, Judge Allen attracted wide attention in her work for woman suffrage. Later she served for 11 years as judge of the Ohio supreme court—an elective post. President Roosevelt named her in 1934 to the circuit bench for Ohio, Michigan, Kentucky and Tennessee.

Judge Allen doesn't allow her duties on the bench to dull her interest in the lighter side of living. She swims, hikes, plays the piano for hours at a time and reads detective stories of legal procedure.

Some students of legal procedure question whether Miss Allen's philosophy coincides with the objectives of the Roosevelt administration. Others say emphatically her views have been liberal.

For herself, she says her decisions "are there to speak for themselves." She favored the new deal on TVA and some labor board decisions.

against individuals and companies in favor of the school districts in the sum of $5,786.82.

The findings are the result of illegal payment of bills, illegal contracts, unauthorized expenditures and overcharges.

The largest individual finding is $1,357.90 in favor of the Yellow Creek school district and against the Haywood, Wakefield Co. of Gardner, Mass., because of an illegal contract entered into by the board of education of the district in connection with the construction of two new school buildings through PWA.

The greatest number of findings were returned in favor of the Salineville village school district as a result of contracts entered into there by the clerk and board members in the building of a new school with PWA aid.

Three of the larger of 10 findings amounting to over $2,500, were against the Crescent Machine Co., $650; the Berger Manufacturing Co., $600; and the Kewanee Manufacturing Co., $600.
